

Fingerprints did not mean much to the people at the Prophet's time. An Englishman by the name of Genn Ginsen, in 1856, found out that the pattern of lines at the tip of a person's finger was something unique to the individual. Until 1856, men knew nothing about this characteristic of fingertips. The discovery of the fact that the pattern of lines on fingertips was a sort of identity card is often used by the police to help find criminals. The pattern lines of the fingertips differ even in identical twins.

Toddler Room 18 months-30 months:

The toddler room provides a safe, learning atmosphere for young exploring minds. Children are able to comfortably learn and discover through their senses at their own developmental levels. We believe that toddlers learn basic life-long skills through the art of playing.

Preschool Room 31 months-5 years old:

The preschool room is bright and lively. Children are actively learning new skills each and every day. The preschoolers constantly challenge themselves developmentally. They are making life-long lasting friendships and building trust with adults around them.
